

Different types of human structure exist, like for example religions, enterprises, banks, sporting organizations and the Humanist Movement, too.

THE SENSE OF THE ORGANIZATION

However these structures are different for their interests and motivations, what bring themselves to different forms of action and ways of getting organized. Let's define therefore how the HM is structured.

The HM works with a structure of volunteers who organize themselves in functions, where actions are planned as a whole and every member brings its virtues to the project, with a style opened to human communication.

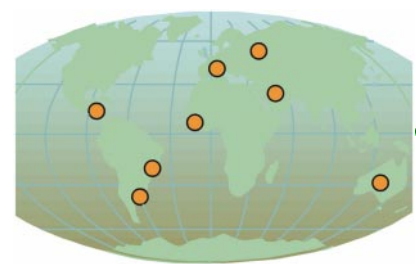

The strength of the HM takes its root in the structure. People say that strength stays in the union, that people are powerful when they are many and organized. Organize ourselves means to structure ourselves.

For this reason people who participate to the HM build structure, in order to be able to reach their goals:

Humanize the Earth. This goal, that directs to the overcoming of pain and suffering, that commits itself to life and that struggles for a universal human nation, needs a sufficient number of people to show its strength and to show that it is possible. This strength that is present in every of us is multiplied when we get together with the people around us, with our friends, with our relatives and we talk them about our projects and our aspirations.

SOCIAL CHANGE

For the Humanist Movement a structure is a human organization able to reach a change in the actual historical moment.
